About Yamanashi Prefecture

Yamanashi Prefecture is situated in the center of Japan. Located next to Tokyo, almost 80% of the prefecture consists of mountains and forests, and it is famous for its rich natural scenery.

The local topography is known as the “Kofu basin,” being completely encircled by mountains. Mt. Fuji, which towers over the land to the south, is Japan’s highest peak, a distinctive symbol of Japan, and listed as a world heritage site. To the north is the Yatsugatake mountain range with the Kiyosato Highlands at its foot. To the west is the Southern Alps, a mountain range listed as a UNESCO Biosphere Reserve (also known as a UNESCO Eco Park in Japan), with some of Japan’s greatest mountains, including Mt. Kai-Komagatake and Mt. Kitadake, its second-highest peak.

The climate of Yamanashi includes large temperature swings between summer and winter; thus, the prefecture undergoes distinctively visible changes between the four seasons. Fruit cultivation thrives by making use of the climate’s temperature range.

Yamanashi has also been famous since ancient times as a source of rock crystals, and it produces more jewelry than anywhere else in Japan thanks to its superior grinding techniques.

No.1 in Japan

Tallest mountain: Mt. Fuji

No. 1 producer of peaches, grapes, and plums

No. 1 producer of jewelry

No. 1 producer of mineral water

Natural Onsens Arising from the Natural Environment

Yamanashi Prefecture is one of Japan's leading onsen regions, with many hot springs known as onsenkyos. The entire prefecture is dotted with distinctive hot spring areas. Wherever you go in Yamanashi, you can enjoy an onsen. There is so much diversity as well—historical onsenkyos, highland onsens, onsens by lakes and in river gorges, and more. Another way to enjoy onsens is by visiting outdoor baths. The experience of having an outdoor bath while enjoying the view of Mt. Fuji or the night lights of a nearby town is spectacular.

How to Use the Baths

- Onsens have baths that are used by many people together. You must bathe in the nude.
- Before going into the bath, rinse your body off in the washing area.
- Sit while you use the washing area to avoid spraying other guests.
- Do not drop your soap or towel in the bath.
- Do not wash your clothes in the bath.
- Dry yourself off before returning from the bathhouse to the changing room.

These rules are a major part of Japanese onsen etiquette, so please take the time to learn them.
